DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 7, 8, 11, and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Akuta et al. (US 5370199A) and in view of Yamashita (US 5729455A).

Art Unit: 3663

Akuta et al. discloses a method of controlling traction (see abstract) having at least one non-driven wheel speed sensor including selecting wheel slip detection method by comparing detected non-driven wheel speed with a threshold (Akuta et al., column 4, lines 39-45; figure 3).

While patent drawings are not drawn to scale, relationships clearly shown in the drawings of a reference patent cannot be disregarded in determining the patentability of claims. See In re Mraz, 59 CCPA 866, 455 F.2d 1069, 173 USPQ 25 (1972).

Although Akuta et al. discloses "throttle valve angle detector 11 for detecting opening angle of the throttle valve", fails to teach: "comparing trans throttle position signal to a threshold".

Yamashita has been provided to overcome the deficiencies from Akuta et al. by teaching a traction control system/method of controlling traction in a vehicle comprising: "comparing trans throttle position signal to a threshold" (see Yamashita, column 6, lines 48-67).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the traction control system/method as taught by Akuta et al. to include the teachings of Yamashita, in order to provides safety for a motor vehicle when the vehicle is travelling on a curvature of a road.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 9, 10, 13, and 14 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 7, 8, 11, and 12 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
